Ensure your compliance with all regulations and save money with our CMS programs.

Managing UST facilities is challenging enough without the increasing complexity created by new and changing local, state and federal regulations. With updates on the horizon from the EPA on the federal UST regs, it’s only likely to become more complicated.

This challenge is why operators across the country are turning to an outsourced Compliance Management model – looking to a professional organization tasked with overseeing all or part of their site compliance.

With Compliance Management Services from Tanknology, that’s exactly what we do. We manage the day-to-day compliance requirements and only get you involved when something significant is deserving of your attention. Otherwise, you focus on the rest of your job, with the confidence that your sites remain securely in compliance.

For some companies, we manage it all.

From remote ATG polling for inventory, delivery reporting or alarm monitoring, to monthly release detection reporting to directing the response to alarms or potential fuel releases. For these customers we provide closed-loop alarm management – handling alarm conditions from the first signal, to tracking progress, to final resolution. We even manage NOV resolution and agency reporting.

For other companies, we have a narrower set of responsibilities.

Perhaps we provide 24/7 alarm monitoring and monthly release detection reporting, but our software system, the industry-leading Titan Cloud Software platform, largely manages the program and provides the data or notifications automatically as directed by the client.

For still other clients, it’s a hybrid of our packaged programs.

They choose the services to augment their internal capabilities in order to complete a total compliance program.

Whatever the ultimate package ends up being, we provide a fixed-price, per-facility fee schedule. As you grow and add facilities, it is simple to calculate your compliance management costs and bring the new sites
At the end of the year, it is sure to be a substantial savings over managing it internally.

A Compliance Management relationship starts with an in-depth conversation – about needs, options, and possibilities.
